Whatever you will be, it is just because of your family. My father is a respectable businessman in Saudi Arabia. My mother is a householder. She manages our family very carefully. She is the heart of our family. That's I have learned from my parents the value of time, honesty, hard work, and commitment to the purpose. We are one brother and three sisters. Being the eldest I am the most liable of my sisters. I wanted to guide and take care of my other siblings. I am studying at the best school in my city. I have passed my PSC from Pochimgoan Adrsha Govt. Primary School with GPA.4.33 out of 5.00. I have passed my SSC from Laksam Pilot Govt. 2. 우리 대학에 지원한 학과를 희망하는 이유, 입학 후 자기계발 및 학업 계획, 졸업 후의 자신의 진로계획에 대해 쓰십시오.

What motivated you to apply to Kyungmin University? Explain why you are applying to the particular school of study (department) what is your plan of study and self-development after admission, and your career goal after graduation.

Well, The Bachelor of Computer Science and Engineering that I would have chosen to study is not a fully online tool by the universities in Bangladesh, so being at Kyungmin University will allow me to further develop my power structure and academic skills, which are critical to my university course, as well as polish my abilities in the most marketable, innovative, and realistic look for areas. This institution has a vast range of cultures, and there are many overseas students from all over the world, including a few Bangladeshi students, which means I can learn how to lead, live, and compete in this diversified environment. There is liberty and difficulties at Kyungmin University; students are usually free to voice their thoughts and to do what they want lawfully. Individual ideas are encouraged to lead and perform well in the front, in a creative setting.

Everybody has an ambition in life. Aim or ambition is the inner aspiration of man. No man can do anything in the world without aim. So, all of us should be very determined about our aim in life. Without good career planning, right from the start, one can't be on the right track. One has to set the goals by his or her broad career goals. I have studied Science so that I can fulfill my goal. I want to be a Computer Science engineer. As my country has transformed from a recipient of technology to one that creates path-breaking ones now. I feel like a citizen of the new world where narrow boundaries have been engulfed by the passionate desire to contribute to building a better tomorrow for all irrespective of the geographical divides. So far everything I've done outside of my coding lessons has been to boost myself in aspects of computer programming we normally don't think about, the more artistic and businesslike aspects of the field. Considering the actual act of programming, my teachers both in and out of school have taught me all they can offer, this is why I'm trying to continue my education at Kyungmin University. What I can do now is prepare myself to broaden my scope of thinking and focus on my abilities to work with and build off of other people, which in the end improves my actual coding skills.

If I studied computer science, I would have obtained a variety of technical and non-technical skills, ranging from leadership to programming, that is highly appreciated by businesses. Because of the expanding scope of computer science, students now have a lot of options in a wide range of highly specialized fields. Because computers are such an important part of modern life, my computer science abilities are likely to be in high demand across a wide range of businesses. Financial institutions, management consulting businesses, software houses, communications firms, data warehouses, multinational corporations, governmental agencies, universities, and hospitals are among these entities. As always, having completed appropriate work experience is tremendously advantageous. Outside of my degree, I should also consider collecting a portfolio of my independent initiatives, which may include programming, online moderating, or even building an app. This will show companies my enthusiasm for the subject as well as my problem-solving abilities, inventiveness, and initiative.
